FIND OUT HOW!

Construction Junction is a local Pittsburgh organization where you can purchase recycled furniture and other materials for any project you have in mind! This is where we found the majority of our materials.

These cabinets make the basic structure of the “Grecian Altar” shape. They were upper kitchen cabinets that we cleaned and repainted!

These polyurethane pieces helped to make the cabinets more sculptural and detailed.

Amazon Paint company makes high quality latex paint in a variety of colors out of recycled leftover paint that is donated. We used this recycled, eco-friendly paint to paint the entire structure. Use the QR code to go to their website!

The paper roses are made from outdated flyers that were collected from bulletin boards across campus!

The roses were rolled by hand by Dramaturg Caroline Holmes, Assistant Dramaturg Arrim Jung, Eliot Herron, Aysha Zackria, Ang Goodman, and Hannah Wyatt.
